The Fragrance of the Gospel

The apostle Paul says that “through [him]” God “spreads the fragrance of the knowledge of [Christ]” (2 Cor. 2:14). Wherever Paul goes, he spreads the fragrance of the gospel. People smell the message of Christ’s death and resurrection. Paul goes on to write that to some, the gospel is “a fragrance from death to death,” while to others, the gospel is “a fragrance from life to life” (v. 16).

Paul then asks the question, “Who is sufficient for these things?” (v. 16). Who is qualified to spread the fragrance of the gospel? If you’re a follower of Christ, the answer is that you are both qualified and unqualified. This Sunday, Pastor Jonathan will explain how we can both be insufficient and sufficient for the task God has called us to do.

Please join us, whether in person or online, as we get into this challenging passage of Scripture. Before the service, you’re encouraged to carefully read 2 Corinthians 2:12-17.
